

Physician Assistant

MEM Ltd has provided continuous mining & construction safety, emergency Services staffing and emergency response expertise to the company's world wide for over 10 years and maintains a leadership position in developing and utilizing the latest in emergency response personnel and technology.

Due to continued corporate growth, we are currently recruiting for the a project in the Canadian High Arctic area for the following position:

1-Physician Assistant (Ref # 2008-012-PA)

This position is responsible for the overall site medical treatment and medical facility care for a remote mining construction project. The successful candidate must have proficient skills in emergency medical treatment for remote construction, oil and gas sector and/or similar.

Required qualifications and certifications include Physician Assistant certification and ongoing patient care management experience.

It is essential that this individual be familiar with working with and coordinating a volunteer site emergency response team, equipment preparedness and response readiness for all site medical emergencies.

The successful candidate will be required to complete a pre-employment drug screening test. MEM Ltd offers a competitive salary and / or contractor hire packages based on successful applicant's experience and qualifications.

Project Information

Project is 7-12hr days and a rotation option of 2:1 (week) or 3:3 rotations, with all travel and accommodation provided to and from the project site.

Personnel will live on site at the provided accommodation complex in single rooms, with meals provided. The project is designated as 1-year term contract, with potential for extension.

Forward your resume in conference to:
memsafety@gmail.com referencing Emergency Response
Specialist (Ref # 2008-012-EMTA)